

HRHA MTW Hardship Policy

This Hardship Policy applies to the following MTW activities:

- 1) Tenant Rent Policy – the entire package of changes affecting minimum rent; total tenant payment; alternate utility allowance and utility reimbursements; eliminated deductions and standard deductions; and alternate income inclusions and exclusions;
- 2) Payment standards; and
- 3) Triennial recertification and interims.

Definition of Hardship Types

A HARDSHIP exists when:

The family has lost eligibility for or is awaiting an eligibility determination for a federal, state, or local assistance program;

The family would be evicted as a result of the imposition of MTW activities;

The family has experienced a decrease in income because of changed circumstances, including loss or reduction of employment, death in the family, or reduction in or loss of earnings or other assistance;

The family has an increase in expenses because of changed circumstances, such as for medical costs, childcare, transportation, education, or similar items; and

Such other situations and factors determined by the agency to be appropriate.

NO HARDSHIP exists when:

HRHA determines there is no qualifying hardship

MTW activities will be reinstated, including requiring back payment of minimum rent and other costs or fees to HRHA for the time of suspension

TEMPORARY HARDSHIP exists when:

HRHA determines that there is a qualifying hardship but that it is of a temporary nature

The MTW activity will not be imposed for a period of 90 days from the date of the family's request

At the end of the 90-day period, the MTW activity will be imposed retroactively to the time of suspension

HRHA will offer a reasonable repayment agreement for any minimum rent back payment and any other costs and fees paid by HRHA on the family's behalf during the period of suspension

LONG-TERM HARDSHIP exists when:

The Housing Authority determines there is a long-term hardship

The family will be exempt from the MTW activity until the hardship no longer exists

The HRHA Hardship Policy allows the authority the flexibility to address unique, unforeseeable circumstances that may occur and to protect families in crisis. To be considered for a hardship exemption, the household must apply for all benefits for which it may be eligible. Zero income households must report income changes when income begins.

Until income is restored to the household, households must continue to meet the definitions of hardship types above and also meet all of the following criteria:

Remain in compliance with all program requirements

Not owe HRHA any money or be current with a re-payment agreement

Continued lack of income has not been through the fault of the household

Have applied for financial resources it may be eligible for but been unsuccessful in securing those

Request the hardship waiver within the deadline set by HRHA. Households have 10 business days from the date of their "Notice of Change" letter in which to request an Informal Hearing

Have not received hardship relief for the same MTW activity previously

Minimum rent - If paying 35% of the household's monthly adjusted income creates a hardship, households may pay reduced rent for some time period according to the policies and guidelines above for Hardship Types as determined by HRHA.

Elimination of Unreimbursed Child Care/Medical Expense Deduction - The few households that may experience a hardship from the elimination of the Child Care or Medical Expense deduction may make a request for rent reduction according to the policies and guidelines above for Hardship Types. Increased standard deduction offsets this change for elderly/disabled households.

Each household is eligible for only one term of relief for each rent reform initiative. If the household qualifies for more than one relief at any given recertification (annual or interim), the reliefs will be calculated concurrently.

Payment Standards – HRHA is raising the 1BR payment standard to 120% and raising the 1BR accessible unit payment standard to 140% of FMR only for families requiring those features; HRHA will determine if unit qualifies. Where payment standards cause a household hardship, HRHA will apply its Reasonable Accommodations policy.

Triennial Certification and Interim Requests – New recertification schedule will be once every three years. Households may request one interim recertification per year if they have a 20% or more decrease in total household income. Households at zero income will have an interim certification when new income begins, or after 3 months of zero income an interim will be completed with income from previous certification.

For households experiencing a hardship beyond these parameters, HRHA will consider classifying it as a long-term hardship according to the policies and guidelines above.

Voucher Portability

Portability for PBV units in Franklin Heights will be restricted to 24 months.

Move requests will be handled according to HRHA's existing Portability Policy. HRHA's Reasonable Accommodation Policy will still apply.

Requesting a Hardship Exception

The family must formally request a hardship exception by submitting a completed Request for Hardship Exception in written form to HRHA. Forms are available upon request at HRHA's administrative office.

If a family requests a hardship exemption, HRHA will suspend the MTW activity beginning the month following the family's hardship request. The suspension will continue until HRHA can determine whether hardship exists and whether the hardship is of a temporary or long-term nature. During suspension, the family will not be required to participate in relevant MTW activities and support will be adjusted accordingly.

Determination will be made as soon as possible but will not take longer than 10 business days.

If the request does not meet the hardship standards, MTW activities must resume and HRHA will collect any retroactive rent and other fees, if applicable, through a reasonable repayment agreement.

If the request does meet the hardship standards, HRHA will continue to provide an exemption from the MTW activity at a reasonable level and duration in accordance with its MTW policies.

Appeals

Families who disagree with the hardship review decision may appeal the determination through HRHA's existing grievance process.

Notification of Residents

HRHA will:

Notify residents of its hardship policy at intake;

Review its hardship policy with residents at recertification; and

Consider if a resident qualifies for a hardship exemption when assistance is to be terminated due to an MTW activity.

Required Record Keeping

HRHA will preserve all records of hardship requests, determinations, and appeals for the duration of its MTW participation.

HRHA will maintain records to ensure traceability of activities and comply with all applicable regulations. When compliant and reasonable, documentation will be maintained in electronic format.

Records will be available for public review and inspection at the agency's principal office during normal business hours and supplied to HUD if requested.

MTW Community Stakeholder Comments – June 3, 2021- 10am-11:30am in Zoom meeting

Community Stakeholders: John Whitfield, Blue Ridge Legal Services; Jerri Lee, First Step; Sandra Quigg, Boys and Girls Club; Jo Benjamin, United Way; Gayl Brunk, Valley Associates for Independent Living; Adam Yoder, HRCSB; Hannah Bailey, Strength in Peers; Ben Craig, Way to Go; Shannon Porter, Mercy House; Sabrina Herron, Mercy House; Noah Yoder, Mercy House.

HRHA Staff: Michael Wong, executive director; Liz Webb, HCV manager; Zoe Parakuo, family self-sufficiency coordinator; Everett Brubaker, resident services and communication coordinator; Kim Haines, grant coordinator.

Michael Wong gave an overview of the MTW program and HRHA's goals and activities.

? how is very low income measured; Michael explained current standards and breakdown of current residents

Educational goals:

? on if GED incentive needs to be higher, depending on how many clients entering the program need to earn one; if many people need to earn it before other degrees then incentive maybe should be higher; points made that GED is harder to earn than high school diploma; require colleges attended to be accredited; Everett said maybe will break down GED into steps with incentives for each – HRHA will re-examine

? What counts as ESL completion – a course, certificate, what level of achievement; May want to clarify

? Who pays for GED and other degrees and vocational training; Zoe explained BRCC gives discounted tuition; clients can use escrow funds, and HRHA helps with course fees; HRHA will look at more ways to offset tuition and costs

Financial goals:

? On credit repair how much improvement is needed to get incentive and how many times can people earn one; is a certain score required; should incentive process account for starting score for each person since many will be low; should maintaining an achieved score be required; do people have enough time in the program to improve score significantly; Michael said 720 is needed for homeownership; program lasts 5-6 years; HRHA will clarify incentive structure

? Where does money come from for incentives; Michael explained from fungibility of housing and admin funds from HCV program; incentives parallel current FSS program but provide a more immediate reward than escrow process

? To get incentive do people have to stick to the budget they create or just participate in learning budgeting; what proof is required; will they use a budget tool or app or bank apps; many people do not use banks; Zoe and Everett said main goal is to teach budgeting and monthly expense tracking; goal is to coach and educate, not penalize; Michael mentioned free financial literacy classes and resources

Commenters like financial literacy as a powerful skill to have; like the move away from a punitive approach to coaching model

Employment:

? are incentives for full time work only; for staying with the same employer; what about flex jobs; or minimum hours per week at any jobs; encourage work at same employer to achieve FT job with benefits; tiered options for short term gig work vs long term FT work; HRHA will clarify standards

Homebuyer readiness:

Everett explained rent to buy courses that clients take now online; they have no fees

Family wellness:

? Increase incentives to include nutrition, physical wellness, well baby checks, classes for pregnant couples; immunizations; can clients get to the medical office; do clients view health care as for illness only not for prevention; do people have insurance coverage; are incentives enough to overcome barriers to care.

Commenters liked the emphasis on mental health, which is often overlooked and not covered by insurance, and the focus on wellness. Michael said a holistic approach is one goal.

FSS participation:

Michael explained that currently clients get credit for meeting with staff; money goes into escrow monthly but most cannot be accessed until end of program; new model means funds could be available immediately; Everett said feedback from clients is some like that they cannot access the money easily.

? Can clients switch between escrow deposit or receiving a check each month; Everett said that is the ideal situation if that choice can be set up and managed easily; tiered escrow is closest to traditional model; new model will allow earnings for people working but also earnings for those not working but completing other activities

? Consider incentives for kids' education and other kids' activities such as nutrition program at school

? Will incentives in practice be equitable between English speakers and ESL speakers; HRHA will evaluate

Landlord incentives:

? Can the time limit on finding a place to use voucher be increased given that meeting the current time frame is difficult; Michael said extensions were given for COVID but not allowed in MTW

? What efforts are made to persuade landlords averse to working with HRHA, especially large rental entities; Michael said HRHA did an analysis of small vs larger landlords; large property managers price out clients with management fees; HRHA does meet with landlords and realtors' association – they like HRHA but do not need us as they can get higher rent from others

? Can amount of voucher be increased; Michael explained there is some leeway but it has to be balanced with mandate to serve substantially the same number and types of clients

? Can city be influenced to mandate inclusionary zoning; stakeholder said that comment period on city zoning changes starts next week

Commenter likes help from housing coordinator to navigate voucher use in a timely manner

Cost savings:

Michael explained the overall cost savings of the MTW changes and activities that will offset rent increases with a goal to be cost neutral to the extent possible – such as increasing some allowances and eliminating earned income disallowances. Increase to 2-year initial lease term in Franklin Heights explained.

Commenters wanted more info and details; Michael outlined sample rent and utility changes for different sized units and noted that was without considering the triennial certification that will allow clients to keep increases in income longer.

? Will removing child care deductions negatively impact families with children vs without children; is child care cost largely subsidized or discounted; should policy stay the same but be reworded to emphasize what is gained in MTW changes instead of what is lost; HRHA will consider.

? Will families be billed back for income increases at triennial certification; no

Commenters like elimination of school grant as income.

? Are MTW changes federal, state or local; Michael said they are local to improve outcomes and flexibility for customizing programs at participating PHAs. He explained lots of HRHA planned changes have been done at legacy MTW PHAs and resulted in increased client self-sufficiency and eliminated their need for subsidies more quickly.

Michael covered the timeline for MTW, including HRHA's implementation schedule; shared opportunities and avenues for more feedback through listening sessions and public comment period for supplement; stressed that HRHA wants to avoid unintended negative consequences of changes and that the program has the flexibility to make changes as it goes on.

Commenters want to be included in future discussions and suggested inviting Church World Service and Skyline Literacy to comment.

Commenters mentioned finding accessible housing is difficult and can take 3-4 months even for accessible student housing. Michael said HRHA is open to suggestions for working with landlords on long term contracts for accessible units or other options. He noted that building new housing is the core need and cannot be done without City Council approval.

Commenter said to consider paying people to spend more time at school with a goal of a higher income later may be effective. Noted that many trades pay higher than professional degrees in some fields.

Michael thanked everyone for the helpful feedback and thoughts.

Comments in chat from Community Stakeholder meeting June 3, 2021 - 10am-11:30am

10:28:09 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : To clarify broadly these incentives are open to ~90 participants who are participants in the Family Self-Sufficiency program. The traditional escrow model provided monthly financial savings based on increases in rent in from program start. The calculation is confusing, and based solely on increases in income. This transition to incentive opens escrow earnings to more participants and helps provide building blocks in a variety of self-sufficiency areas.

10:33:24 From B. Craig to Everyone : Circling back to the Educational Wellness: Specifically, the requirement for obtaining a "Certificate" to receive the incentive; you might want to clarify the achievement associated with the award. For example, there are Master's programs where can earn a certificate, but not a full Master's degree. Master's certificates are like a solid sampling of a full Master's degree program.

10:34:44 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Thanks Ben!

10:36:25 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Ben you all use an online module set with WaytoGo participants yea?

10:37:23 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Brad Barnett in Financial Aid at JMU offers a class on basic budgeting and finance that is excellent.

10:38:20 From Gayl Brunk to Everyone : YES!! Brad Barnett is awesome!!!

10:38:47 From B. Craig to Everyone : Yes! F&M Bank (and BB&T) use an EverFi on-line system:
<http://atwork.everfi.net/fmbank/login>

10:42:02 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : We would love more ideas on family wellness section!

10:44:33 From B. Craig to Everyone : Financial Wellness: I like the Financial Literacy piece as an incentive. I also appreciate securing a Checking Account (not easy for our clients to achieve!) at an FDIC lender as an incentive. This will help them obtain a loan for their first home; finance a car, etc. You could also link the "Checking Acct." to an additional incentive (e.g., no overdrafts.... overdrafts hurts a related item on our list: Credit).... linking the two in a way.

10:46:27 From Noah to Everyone : Once they have a checking account, that provides another tool for budget/coaching. Simply going over a monthly bank statement and physically showing a household where their money is being spent can be extremely helpful

10:46:51 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Thank you both! Good thoughts.

10:48:23 From B. Craig to Everyone : Speaking of children: what about their educational success as an incentive under Family Wellness? E.g., improved grades, or maintaining high grades earns the HH an incentive. This helps to (hopefully) engage the parent further in their child's success at school.

10:49:01 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Happy to facilitate connections to community resources to help participants navigate obstacles to access for any of the incentive items we're discussing.

10:50:17 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Agree to consider incentives that focus on children. For families stuck in the cycle of generational poverty, helping kids break that cycle would be huge. Literally life-changing.

10:50:35 From Gayl Brunk to Everyone : Extension also has nutrition classes-at least used to-and nutritional classes.

10:50:56 From B. Craig to Everyone : ^^ Exactly, Jo! A child's educational success can hopefully lead them out of poverty

10:51:36 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Incentives for pre-natal care for new/expecting parents?

10:52:35 From Sabrina Herron to Everyone : For financial literacy: I am currently working with DCCU about setting up financial literacy classes if that's something you all would also be interested in. The presenter is doing it via zoom but is providing light refreshments and we're offering residents a chance to win a grocery gift card for coming. Something you may want to look into :)

10:53:22 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Agreed, Ben.

That's awesome, Sabrina! I would be interested in hearing more about that. Will email you.

10:53:27 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Thank you all. Sabrina we will follow up that is great!

10:53:34 From John Whitfield to Everyone : I know I haven't added anything to the conversation this morning, but I am interested in all this, for sure. Unfortunately, I have to drop off in order to make a presentation to the Warren County United Way at 11.

10:53:44 From Adam Yoder, HRCSB to Everyone : Will there be obstacles for non-english language speakers that we need to take into account in order for them to complete activities and earn these incentives? Is there equity between english and non-english speakers?

10:53:45 From Zoe Parakuo to Everyone : Thanks everyone, we will follow up.

10:56:41 From B. Craig to Everyone : I'm not super-familiar with the barriers to attracting landlords to participate in this program; but appears you have addressed some of them in your proposal.

10:59:50 From B. Craig to Everyone : Not something I anticipate this group to accomplish on its own, but I would like to see City of Harrisonburg enact an Inclusionary Zoning ordinance: require a given share of new construction to be affordable by people with low to moderate incomes.

11:00:37 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : The City is getting ready to share their proposed changes to Zoning Ordinances to gather public comment. Watch for it in the coming weeks.

11:02:07 From B. Craig to Everyone : Good to know! Thanks, Jo.

11:02:14 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : <https://harrisonburgva.gov/zoning-subdivision-ordinances-update>

See Milestones section - there are public open houses scheduled

11:09:42 From B. Craig to Everyone : Re-circling back to the Educational Wellness comment I made earlier: Also, might want to think about incentive structure based on what type of school attended (e.g., accredited; for-profit, etc.).... certainly there is more value in a certificate/degree from a school like a EMU/BC/JMU vs. an institution like an American National University.

11:10:51 From B. Craig to Everyone : ^ Not laying any shade on a place like ANU, but the degree will bring higher earning potential if from an accredited, non-profit Higher ed institution

11:12:34 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : There are some reputable accredited non-profit higher education institutions that offer online degrees that may be more accessible to working folks. There are some very shady for-profit online courses that do a very good job of pretending to be legit. It's a level of informational literacy to be able to tell the difference between the two and look for accreditation.

11:14:26 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Thanks Jo and Ben! Worth clarifying.

11:14:27 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Alongside this, agree with Adam about considerations for non-English speakers or English language learners and their ability to achieve any of those educational incentive points during the duration of the program.

Also, defining "ESL Completion" might be a good convo to have with Nelly Shenk at Skyline Literacy.

11:16:07 From B. Craig to Everyone : Agreed - Thanks, Jo! This program should educate participants about the differences between all of the varied higher-ed offerings so they can make an informed choice. Either way you slice it, higher-ed is costly and we don't want folks to pump their money into a program that will not launch them forward like they think 11:23:23 From Adam Yoder, HRCSB to Everyone : Gotta run. Thank you Michael, Everett and Zoe. Very hopeful and excited about this program's potential.

11:24:42 From Sandra Quigg to Everyone : Michael, you, Everett and Zoe have done a great job of making the program mostly positive-based rather than punitive. Nicely done.

11:25:12 From B. Craig to Everyone : Yes! Great job. You obviously put a lot of research hours and thought behind all this.

11:26:11 From Jo Benjamin to Everyone : Appreciate the opportunity to give feedback! MTW is moving in a good direction. :-)

11:27:28 From Everett Brubaker to Everyone : Also deserving of recognition are Kim Haines on this call who is handling the grant reporting requirements and the HCV team led by Liz Webb who did much of the work researching what proposals make sense for our residents, participants, and staff. Additional staff like Sandra have also been instrumental!

11:35:46 From Shannon Porter to Everyone : Thanks Michael... it looks very promising

11:36:31 From Noah to Everyone : I need to go as well, but great seeing you all again and thank you! Looking forward to the next time

Feedback on changes (list feedback and which change it relates to):

Feedback on FSS escrow: Supportive of new escrow models. Currently a high escrow earner in FSS (near $25,000 cap) and recognizes value of traditional model for someone like herself who came into the program not working. However she did state, "I never felt involved in escrow. I knew nothing about how it was calculated or how it was done". She likes how clear the new system is and the different opportunities to earn escrow. Though given how much she makes in the traditional model she doubts she would transition to the new model. She is about to graduate as well.

Feedback on changes (list feedback and which change it relates to):

Ashley shared that she really liked the incentive list and is already thinking about ones to do. Likes incentive option to go into savings escrow account rather than immediate check. “The incentives look like it would motivate people to work more. I’m excited to do everything on the list.”

Focus Group online meetings Wednesday, June 9

MTW Staff – June 29, 2021

Review of feedback from tenants and stakeholders conducted from May 28 to June 29, 2021

HRHA gathered feedback through call-in sessions and zoom meetings, calls to participants and residents, mailings to residents in multiple languages, and more.

Feedback overall was positive from residents and community stakeholders, especially for changes in Family Self-Sufficiency incentives, triennial household certifications, rent policies, and landlord incentives. Stakeholder input and questions did lead to a number of MTW plan refinements.

A major MTW change with the FSS program is a transition away from an escrow/savings model based on increases in rent at start of program and toward a clearer, incentive/rewards based savings model. Based on feedback, HRHA increased incentive amounts for educational achievements such as obtaining a GED, certifications, or an associate’s degree and added more incentive opportunities such as getting an annual physical, attending parenting classes, and others. HRHA also clarified details about requirements and incentive earnings that stakeholders had identified as vague.

Based on concerns about increases in rent and/or loss of certain deductions such as child care when calculating rent, HRHA clarified that there are safe harbor and hardship policies in place. HRHA also emphasized that other MTW proposals will balance the rent increases and loss of certain deductions, such as moving to triennial certification so participants can keep more of their earned income.
